Hubbard's essay reveals the context of Rowan's reason for delivering the message. As it turns out, Garcia was the leader of the Cuban insurgents. The president of the United States at the time, William McKinley, needed Garcia's help for the war effort. Not knowing how to win over the insurgent, it was suggested that someone deliver a message to Garcia personally. Rowan was the individual suggested to deliver the important message.

1899 A Message to Garcia By Elbert Hubbard In all this Cuban business there is one man stands out on the horizon of my memory like Mars at perihelion. A Message to Garcia is a widely distributed essay written by Elbert Hubbard in 1899, expressing the value of individual initiative and conscientiousness in work. As its primary example, the essay uses a dramatized version of a daring escapade performed by an American soldier, 1st Lt. Andrew S. Rowan, just prior to the Spanish–American War.
