The East End has always contained some of London's poorest areas. The main reasons for this include: The medieval system of copyhold, which prevailed throughout the East End into the 19th century. Great Portland Street in the West End of London links Oxford Street with Albany Street and the A501 Marylebone Road and Euston Road. The road forms the boundary between Fitzrovia to the east and Marylebone to the west. Once a recognised grid was applied by the Ordnance Survey, specialist societies could use maps to record data. The Botanical Society of the British Isles surveys native plants and plots their distribution in tetrads (2 km squares). 10/7/13 'Well done, Mr Wise!' (Sadly, not a relative of mine. . .) The Anti-Vaccination movement of the late 19th-century had a particularly strong cell in the East End; in the Old Nichol, home to the poorest East Londoners, destitute parents faced cumulative fines for refusing to allow doctors to vaccinate their infants against smallpox.
