

Download Prediction Markets Supporting Technology Assessment

Prediction Markets Supporting Technology Assessment Corporate applications of prediction markets to support decision making. In this book, we study the use of prediction markets for technology assessment. In this book, we study the use of prediction markets for technology assessment. We particularly focus on their ability to assess complex issues, the design constraints required for such applications and their efficacy compared to traditional techniques. 301 Moved Permanently. Server in which prediction markets can be successfully used in the innovation process are idea creation, idea screening and filtering, concept evaluation, lead user identification, market success forecasting and pricing, demand forecasting,