Quartet for the End of Time: A Novel [Johanna Skibsrud] on Amazon.com. FREE shipping on qualifying offers. A “cinematic . . . page-turner and a compassionate analysis of faith, memory, responsibility” In September 2010, Anne was honoured to co-host the University of New Brunswick's 225th Anniversary Celebration in Toronto with former Premier of New Brunswick and Deputy Chair of TD Financial Group Frank McKenna (who, by the way, went to school with Anne's brother Stewart). The future kings of Toronto R&B 1 Majid Al Maskati and Jordan Ullman cut their teeth in a U of T dorm room, toying with synths and drum machines through the night. Lee, I know the Booker is a different beast, but back in 2010 the Giller Prize was won by Johanna Skibsrud's novel The Sentimentalists despite being published by a very small company that had only printed 800 copies of the book.
