Analysis of album art of the 20th Century - Music has always had a strong influence on people everywhere in the world and nothing points to this ever changing. Abstract Expressionism. The dominant artistic movement in the 1940s and 1950s, Abstract Expressionism was the first to place New York City at the forefront of international modern art. Josef Albers' extensive work proposing that color, rather than form, is primary in pictorial language, profoundly influenced the development of modern art. Pollock's Birth is shot through with primeval energy. The process of birth is seen as a desperate struggle. The mask-like faces, drawn from Inuit and Native American art, lend the image an unrestrained energy.
